What people like and admire about me:

- I am a good friend.
- I am kind.
- I love to chat!
- I try my best all of the time.
- I always have a smile on my face.

What is important to me

- To know that I am doing well and working hard; to have praise and a 'pasta in the jar' each time the adult notices I remembered my sounds.
- Not to be rushed to talk, because this makes me forget my sounds and people won't understand me which makes me upset.
- My drawings book.

How to best support me

- I don't like the teacher to make a fuss about my speech in front of the whole class (even if it's good fuss!). Instead, tell me when I'm on my own or with my group of friends.
- I don't like to be reminded to use my 's' sound in front of the whole class. Instead, I will keep my 's' card in my pencil case to remind myself, or the teachers can use the 's' sign to secretly remind me. I can teach you the 's' sign.
- Give me time to chat with the teachers on my own or with a friend at least twice a week, where they can listen out for my 's' sound. I like it when they notice it and tell me that I can put a 'pasta in the jar' for remembering my sounds. I keep this jar in my locker and when it's full, Mum will let me choose a small toy for working hard.
- If it's a busy time and you haven't got time for me to chat, just tell me that it's busy and you will speak to me later on. Please don't forget!
